Melvin Hyman Gets Casper Faculty Award

Dr. Melvin Hyman, professor of speech, today was named the recipient of the Samuel C. Casper Distinguished Faculty Award.

Dr. Hyman received the award, which includes $250, for superior teaching ability, profound concern for the intellectual growth of students, contributions to the growth of the University, and efforts to disseminate the specialized insight of a professor's discipline among the general public.

Serving as Faculty Senate Chairman this year, Dr. Hyman came to the University in 1952. He received his B.A. from Brooklyn College and his master's degree and doctorate from Ohio State University.

He serves as adviser to Zeta Beta Tau social fraternity, adviser and honorary member of Sigma Alpha Eta, speech and hearing honor society; and is on the executive board of Wood County Crippled Children's Society.

Dr. Hyman serves on the Board of Trustees of the Ohio Division of the American Cancer

Society and the American Heart Association. He recently received a grant from the Ohio Division of the American Cancer Society to work with others to translate into Spanish his manual which teaches laryngectomy persons to talk.

This summer Dr. Hyman will teach graduate courses in speech pathology at Los Angeles State College.
